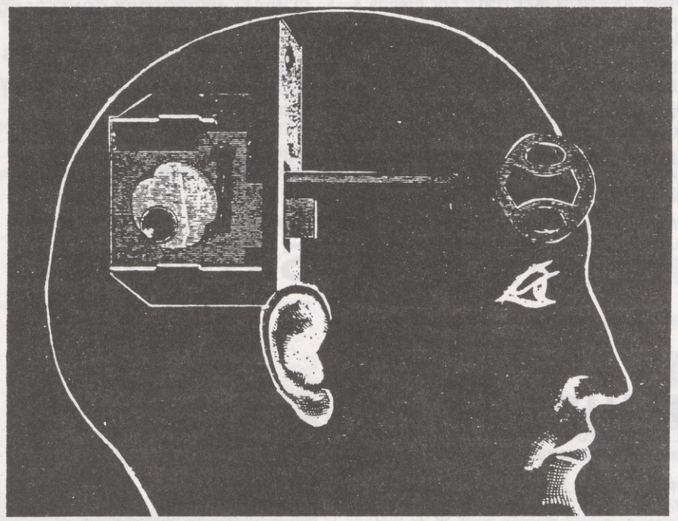
DEADLINE

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, covering the time period Sept. 21-Oct. 4, will be Tuesday, Sept. 10, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x1541 or x2557.



The National Institutes of Health has selected UCSF as one of four universities to share $15 million in funds specifically designated by Congress for research on the brain and nervous system.

The funds, to be spread over five years, were specially mandated by the Senate to honor former Senator Jacob Javits of New York and will be used to establish four Senator Jacob Javits Centers for Excellence in Neuroscience. According to the Senate directive, these centers "shall be dedicated to finding the cause, prevention and cure for neurological diseases" through studies of the "fundamental biological issues of nervous system structure and function."

The $4 million grant to UCSF will support study of slow infectious agents, or prions, which are known to cause several degenerative neurological diseases in humans and animals. The UCSF center, to be headed by neurologist Stanley B. Prusiner, MD, will continue studies which began 10 years ago to determine the structure of prions and how they cause disease.

Joining Prusiner in his study of prions is an international team of researchers. In addition to the center's assistant director, Michael McKinley, PhD, assistant professor of neurology and anatomy, they include Robert J. Fletterick, PhD, UCSF professor and chair of the Department of Biochemistry/Biophysics; Leroy Hood, MD, PhD, Division of Biology, Caltech; Charles Weissmann, MD, PhD, Institute of Molecular Biology, University of Zurich; David T. Kingsbury; PhD, Naval Biosciences Laboratory, UC-Berkeley; George A. Carlson, PhD, Jackson Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Maine; and Detlev Riesner, PhD, University of Dusseldorf. Research will be conducted in existing laboratories at the various institutions. The neuroscientists heading the other research centers are Nobel Laureate Gerald Edelman of Rockefeller University in New York, Gerald Fishbach of Washington University in St. Louis and Pasko Rakic of Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut.

The UC Regents have approved the establishment of the first organized research unit in the School of Nursing—the new Institute for Health and Aging—with Carroll L. Estes as director. Estes is the first woman to direct an organized research unit on this campus.

Formerly the Aging Health Policy Center, the Institute has been designated the only national policy study center in health and aging by the Administration on Aging in Washington, D.C. The Institute conducts policy-oriented research and analyses of major issues related to health and aging, provides technical assistance to policy-makers and offers education and training opportunities to students.

Ongoing research projects in the Institute, which are funded annually for over $1 million, include:
• Developing methods to measure the burden and cost of chronic illness, utilizing population projections and estimates of health facilities and manpower needs by state.
• Examining the ability of community service delivery agencies to respond to the increased demand for health care services as access to acute care facilities becomes limited.
• Developing an innovative research method to study the determinants of health status in the older population. Research has focused on demographics, environmental, nutritional, psychosocial and economic factors and their relative contributions to overall health and functional status.
• Serving as the National Policy Center on Health for the U.S. Administration on Aging for five years.

The cut-over to the new telephone system previously scheduled for Friday, Sept. 6, has been delayed. Pacific Bell has had difficulties in testing the new system and hopes to have it operating sometime in November.

In the meantime, if callers dial the prefix 476 they will automatically be routed to the 666 prefix or to LPPI's 681-8080.

NEWS BRIEFS

Fifteen new grants totaling nearly $1.4 million have been awarded to UCSF medical researchers by the American Cancer Society.

The newly awarded grants went to:

- R. Douglas Armstrong, Cancer Research Institute & pharmacology: $219,000 for a study of therapeutic implications of antimetabolic incorporation into tumor cell RNA.
- Edwin Cadman, director, Cancer Research Institute: $71,000 for a continuing study of fluoropyrimidine effects on DNA and mRNA.
- Albert B. Deisseroth, medicine: $200,000 to investigate the activation of embryonic genes in leukemia cells.
- Marc W. Kirschner, biochemistry/biophysics: $80,000 to complete a study of microtubule initiation sites in the cytoskeleton.
- Tristam G. Parslow, pathology: $140,000 to study regulatory elements in the immunoglobulin Kappa genes.
- Helen B. Stone, radiation oncology: $200,000 for a study of multifraction hyperthermia and radiation in normal tissue.
- Gordon J. Strewler, medicine: $107,000 for a study of malignancy-associated hypercalcemia.
- Brian J. Hjelle, Hooper Foundation; Alfredo R. Lopez, medicine; Joseph D. Rosenblatt, hematology/oncology: Physician's research training fellowships of about $41,000 each.
- Timothy L. Reudelhuber, metabolic research unit: $90,000 junior faculty research award.
- Paul F. Bates & Michael R. Gold, microbiology/immunology; Paul J. Godowski & Sandra L. Wolin, biochemistry/biophysics: Postdoctoral research fellowships of about $41,000 each.

Some administrative responsibilities have changed in the Hospitals and Clinics with the resignation of Assistant Director Victor Yick. Materiel Services now is under Assistant Director Dan Shydler; Anatomical Pathology under Assistant Director Karen Akerson; Electrocardiology, Echocardiology and Medical Records under Deputy Associate Director Ron Lipsy.

Different types of arthritis and treatments will be discussed at the first UCSF-Laurel Heights Community Health Talk on Wednesday, September 18, from 7:30-9 p.m. at the UCSF-Laurel Heights auditorium.

The talk, entitled "Arthritis: The Problems and Treatments," will be presented by David B. Hellmann, MD, assistant clinical professor of medicine, Division of Rheumatology and Clinical Immunology.

Hellmann will explain common and unusual types of arthritis and review treatments, including aspirin, new nonsteroidal, anti-inflammatory drugs and nondrug therapy.

This new series of evening lectures is sponsored by Public Service Programs. Free parking is available in the public parking lot off of California Street. For more information call x3206.

Why older people fall, and how this can be prevented, is the focus of a new UCSF study.

Falls and broken hips cripple thousands of older Americans—particularly women—every year, and the statistics are becoming more alarming:

- One of four Americans over age 65 falls at least once a year.
- Each year over 200,000 older Americans suffer broken hips, usually the result of falls.
- According to the National Safety Council, falls are the cause of over half of the injury-related deaths among older people.

Michael Nevitt, PhD, assistant professor of medicine and Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholar, and epidemiologist Steven Cummings, MD, head the new UCSF study, funded by a $180,000 grant from the Commonwealth Fund. They are seeking some 400 Bay Area men and women over age 60 who have experienced at least one fall in the past year. For further information call 826-7130.

The UCSF Faculty Wives will hold their next meeting on Wednesday, October 2, 10:30 a.m. at the Faculty/Alumni House. Pat Schindler will present a lecture/slide show about Benny Bufano. Lunch will follow. For further information call Marjorie Campagna-Pinto at 921-6646.

The Friends of Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute has donated $39,500 to LPPI in order to improve the LPPI roof area for patients to spend more time outdoors. The renovation will include picnic tables, benches, planters and outdoor game equipment.

The Friends has donated another $4,000 to the Patients' Benefit Fund, which provides community outings, recreational equipment, music and craft supplies to LPPI patients. Since 1974, the Friends has contributed some $34,000 to the Fund.

Nominations are now being accepted for the 1985-86 Faculty Research Lecturer.

Held every year in April, the Faculty Research Lecture is one of the highest scientific achievement recognitions awarded by UCSF.

Nominations must be submitted by Friday, September 13. For more information call Annie Bruster, x1307.

Beginning Tuesday, October 1, the Mailing Division will offer a new service for electronic transmission and receipt of documents within the US. Called ZAP-MAIL, the system transmits mail between ZAP machines in less than two hours with hand delivery by Federal Express to specific locations in less than 24 hours. Cost of transmission depends on the number of pages and delivery requirements.

Other UC campuses presently on-line or who anticipate joining the UC ZAP-MAIL Network are Office of the President (University Hall and Washington), Irvine, Los Angeles, Riverside and San Diego. For further information contact Judy Bishop or Sharon Ottolia at x1124.

Patchwork artist Patricia White is the featured artist at the Faculty/Alumni House through Friday, November 29.

White's contemporary patchwork pieces have been included in several publications and art shows. Her piece "Tsunami," was the Best of Show winner at the 1983 Festival of Quilts in Indiana.

The campus community is invited to an opening reception on Tuesday, September 10, from 4:30 to 7 p.m. For further information call x4723.
